

Irma Holds Another Successful Sports Day

The Irma and District Board of Trade has added yet another highly successful sports day to its credit and the large crowd that gathered here on August 6 enjoyed to full the program provided. The weather was ideal—quite the most summerlike day of 1952—and if you wanted to play ball or just eat ice cream, the set up was made for you.

But of course everybody wanted to see the parade first so each picked out a good vantage point along the route and waited. We did have to wait a bit, too, but it was no ones fault. The Viking school band was to lead the parade and as some of the members had to work until 12:30 there was nothing else to be done. The four clowns did a fine job of entertaining during the delay.

But the Viking young folks did arrive, very tanned and smart they were too. We remember seeing them in the Edmonton's exhibition parade as well. With their smart drum majorettes in the lead they started think off at a good pace.

Following the band was the Legion Float. This was a very striking entry with a large white cross in the foreground with smaller crosses and poppy-covered mounds at the back. It did none of us any harm, even on Sports day, to be reminded that these privileges and pleasures of ours have been "bought with a price."

The large white float of the Irma Hardware came next and was drawn by a handsome team of black horses driven and owned by J. J. Bacon. Then adding a western touch to the picture was the Lambert chuckwagon flanked with outriders and followed by Joe Rohrer and Roy Larson on their ponies.

The Gratton View Hotel entry was a large float on which a surgical operation was in full swing. A swarm of Doctors, Nurses and interns were all as busy as beavers. It was supposed they were setting a broken leg but when the patient, if he survived, gets his bill, he'll find there were complications. The blue and white float with our CGIT girls in uniform came next. This was very neatly trimmed but the streamers had blown away in the wind while the parade was waiting to start, but says we, any float that has those lassies on it is decorated, streamers or not.

The Battle River W.I. entry followed with banners flying and next the Senior W.A. float with a fine replica of a church steeple and all.

The Club Cafe gaily decorated car came next in line with balloons and streamers floating. A very eye-catching entry then appeared. This was the work of the Sew and Sew Club of Fabian and featured a large facimile of a 25th anniversary cake flanked by lovely flowers. The Imperial Lumber Co. float followed. A lot of labour had been extended on this item and the result was a truly finished product advertising articles to beautify or improve the home. Then came the Irma W.I. entry. This was decorated in blue and white, the W.I. colors, and showed a large map of Canada and the motto "From Coast to Coast."

Then all of things, "the old swimming hole." This item caused plenty of fun and was a brain wave of Mervin Lovig and Stan Pierce. These resourceful lads had mounted a horse tank full of water on a truck and surrounded it with trees, then called in their pals to join in the fun. Who was the beautiful "lady" in the blue suit? To us it looked like a Mervy maid. No, we don't mean mer. You heard us the first time.

Next was "Fairy Land." This lovely entry was the work of the Junior Girl Guides and under arches of tinsel and silver bells sat the fairy queen. Blazin' Anquist and her court ladies, Shirley Lovig, Arlene Clumstad, Elaine Jack, Lois Reed and Elaine McMillan. The J. C. McFarland Co. float came next. This was neatly trimmed and displayed the trade names of the famous lines of merchandise featured at that store. Following was Central Garage float with Esso sign and a lovely Buick car mounted on top. Another entry which caused plenty of fun was that of Rohrer and Prosser Construction Co. With hammers ringing they built a wooden edifice as the parade moved along. Next represented was the Ross FUA entry. This had replicas of farm produce mounted on it and was interesting to all.

Mrs. A. D. Glasgow followed, driving a tractor pulling a large float on which the pupils of her room, Grade 2, sat attired in fancy dress. This was a colorful entry.

Next was the Calf Club—you couldn't mistake it for anything else because there were three live calves being given a thorough grooming and washing. What grand shape they'll be in for the show next June!

A brightly decorated car followed carrying the Irma Pool Hall sign. Next a neatly trimmed automobile driven by V. Tonner displaying the 40-50 Summer. Then came the Irma Food Market entry.

This was smart little float with an Indian tape and Indian braves all seated in council. These good "Injuns" were Gary and Denny Meier, Douglas Sharkey, Lorne and Gordon Anquist. P. E. Jones entered the next float. This was The Teddy Bear's Picnic. It displayed a model picnic grounds all surrounded by trees. The picnickers were all Teddy Bears.

Stuart Fenton's car followed advertising the Refrigerator Jamboree. Another float by Mr. P. E. Jones came after, displaying two refrigerators.

A good display of machinery was in the latter part of the parade. These represented the Industrial—Oil Refining, Gasoline, Concrete, and speak well for the prosperity of our district with so many large items on display.

Mr. and Mrs. Murray drove the Municipal road trailer along. Ed Haugen added his sound truck to the parade which was brought to a conclusion by Jimmy Mason and Wallace Dunbar on bicycles—the former dressed as an old lady with a pig mask and the latter with a brightly trimmed bicycle.

And let's not forget the famous four, C. Smallwood, C. Jones, J. Lancaster and V. Sampson whose clowning covered everything from marching with the Drum Majorettes to dunking themselves in the pool swimming hole. When the parade arrived at the sports grounds ball games were already in progress. These continued until dark. Results of ball games as follows:

Hard Ball

Irma from Hardisty by default. Lougheed from Chauvin, Irma from Manville, Irma and Lougheed tied for first place and as darkness was falling these two teams split first and second money.

Mens Soft Ball

Aplomb from Irma. Strawberry Plains from Albert, Kinsella from Metropilitan, Lakeford had a tie. Aplomb from Strawberry Plains. Aplomb from Lakeford in the finals.

Ladies Soft Ball

Irma High School from Kinsella. Irma ladies from Viking. Irma high school won from Irma Ladies in the final.

The midway on the grounds this year was more wholesome and enjoyable because the committees ran its own concessions and saw to it that there was a reasonable fairness in the even the best attractions was the smallest and bell whereby one might test ones physical prowess. We believe every man, woman and child on the grounds had a hankering to pound on it and next day when it stood there unattended many and various were the citizens who came over and banged away. As for our sports committee when they came to dismantle it they held a veritable field day first. We saw 'em.

The booth must have done a box office business, too, and never have we seen quite such a tempting and plentiful display of home made pies. A nice selection of fire works and a big dance at night rounded out a happy day for everyone.

Third Sheet to Be Added to Curling Rink

About 15 volunteer workers got together on the curling rink building on Tuesday last and split it open down the middle and moved the south side over to make it wide enough for that third sheet of ice planned on.

Now the rafters are up where the new part of the roof is to be and anyone who can spare time to lend a hand with the completion of the job will be more than welcome. There's siding to put on and shingles to lay and plenty of work for all who can manage to offer help.

The building committee would be glad for as many to buy shares in the rink just now as are able. Anyone wishing to buy shares contact A. C. Milne, Neil McMillan, Olo Nissen, Edgar Jones or Lorry Meier. Your money will be a real help for the building material.

Glen-Coa Cleanings

Mrs. Vernon Curtis (nee Mary Ruth Erickson) and two wee daughters, Judy and Sharon, of Los Angeles, are visiting the Erickson home at present.

Mr. and Mrs. N. Fluveog and girls motored to Wetaskiwin last Sunday.

Mr. L. Sarte was on a fishing trip to Muriel Lake last weekend. We hope he had good luck.

On Wednesday morning, August 9, the neighbors really surprised us. They had come to our house gathered at the Whithall home in her honor as bride-elect. After an interesting contest, Betty's sisters, Joan and Lily, put a large decorated basket before her filled with many useful gifts. Betty thanked her friends for their good wishes and thoughtfulness, and invited each one to visit her in her new home.

Mrs. Whithall and family drove to Wetaskiwin on Saturday, Aug. 9 to attend the wedding of Rev. and Mrs. Knudson. The party was in reality a grocer shower and a table was set to overflowing with useful gifts for the kitchen as well as many gifts in each. A short impromptu musical program was given, after which the president of each of the three organizations spoke a few words of welcome. Pastor Knudson responded feelingly, reminding all that their home was always wide open to everyone.

On Thursday evening, August 7, many Sharon folk drove to Sedgewick to share in the parish surprise party on Rev. and Mrs. Knudson. The party was in reality a grocer shower and a table was set to overflowing with useful gifts for the kitchen as well as many gifts in each. A short impromptu musical program was given, after which the president of each of the three organizations spoke a few words of welcome. Pastor Knudson responded feelingly, reminding all that their home was always wide open to everyone.

Church service at Sharon will be at 3 p.m. next Sunday, Aug. 17.

Mrs. O. Likness will be hostess for Ladies Aid on August 21.

"SPIKE" ::

Even in Tank Towns
Promoters can't Draw Flies
With Famous Loser.

By ROY V. PIRCE

POP struggled painfully through the fit of coughing. He scowled at the fighter lying on the rubdown table. "Nobody'll give us a fight now," said the way you let that notice to your body. Through puffed lips, the boxer replied, "I'll hit my winning streak again."

"Seems I've heard that before. All you've hit so far is the canvas?" Pop asked. "I'm O.K." Pop wheezed. "Just a little empty."

"Say Pop! Didn't you eat tonight while I was resting?" "You had to have a steak . . ." Pop caught hold of the table. "You couldn't fight on an empty . . ." His voice faded as he melted candles, and let him down."

It was four days before he could talk to his fighter again. "How do you think we're gonna pay the bill?" And that oxygen tent they've had me under . . . how in the . . ." "Relax, Pop. Where have we ever had to accept charity since teaming up?"

It had been eight years ago that Pop had taken a liking to Spike, then a tall, skinny youth on a boys' club boxing team. He had trained and cared for him, and won some awards. And the association had paid off — until recently when the youngster started slipping with one defeat after another.

"Everything'll be all right," the young man insisted.

Pop exploded. "How?"

Spike's grin showed all his front teeth but three. "I won a fight last night. Got two more lined up."

At that moment, a nurse entered, saying, "Time's up."

Several days later, Spike walked in with a broad smile and face, then he handed Pop some money. "Just in case you need something, such as chewing gum or cigars 'n' stuf." Spike looked happier than Pop had seen him in a long time.

"What'd you do with this?"

"Won another fight," Spike was grinning. "And there's plenty more where that came from, too!"

"I don't get it! In each of your last fights you've had your brains scrambled and now, all of a sudden, you're hitting winning streak. You ain't mixed up in your fight?" Pop cracked a newspaper. "How come? I can find nothing in the papers about you?"

Spike chuckled. "It's like this, I've made such a lousy record under my own name, I changed it."

"Say Pop! I can't find anything in the news about this new miracle fighter?"

Before Spike could answer, a nurse buzzed in and told Pop he'd have to rest now. Spike had already disappeared.

On the eleventh day, Spike paid the hospital bill. It cleaned him out again. "I'm sorry," he said. "We got a two-room apartment now, Pop. No more drab rooms with squeaking iron beds for us."

Looking over the place, Pop opened his mouth to say something, but suddenly he stopped. He went peaceably to bed.

Spike brought him a steaming bowl of soup, crackers and a big glass of milk. Then the fighter scrambled into his coat, saying, "I'm on early tonight at the Arena. Take it easy!" He was gone.

He ate his meal in bed, got up, dressed and went out to the car. He would have braved almost anything to put his mind at rest. Could it be that Spike had suddenly found himself? Pop was almost afraid to hope.

He was too good to be true . . . too much in his coat. He was chilled through and his teeth were chattering when he reached the Arena. The soft drink and peanut vendors were loud, even above the noisy crowd.

Then he saw that he came face to face with Spike.

Neither could speak for a moment, mouths open, they stared at each other. Spike wore a white cap and coat and he carried a large basket. In it were soda pop, candy, cigars and cigarettes.

WINNIPEG—Annual migration of eastern harvesters to the prairie grain fields will begin Aug. 10, H. R. Richardson, manager of the federal government's Farm Help Service said. Special excursion rates for eastern farm laborers become effective that date, he said. Manitoba expects to get 500 of the total 2,000 required in the west.

Mr. Richardson, who was "subject to revision up or down," and whether this demand can be met depends on how soon the harvest in the east is over.

Calgary Boy Wins Mountbatten Medal

CALGARY.—Sixteen-year-old Robert Byron Wardle of Tilley, Alta., was presented with the Mountbatten Medal for the British Empire's outstanding water rescue of 1951. The youth saved a 2½-year-old girl from drowning in a deep cistern last August.

Lord Lovat, leader of the British Columbia Royal Canadian Legion, Second Great War, presented Wardle with the medal before a crowded grandstand at the Calgary Stampede.

Wardle rescued the child from a cistern filled with 10 feet of water. The infant had been immersed for 10 minutes but Wardle applied artificial respiration and started her breathing.

The medal was donated by Earl Mountbatten, president of the Royal Legion Saving Society.

THE TILLERS

Returning To Front*Story Of Canadian Soldier In Korea Who Was Shot, Stabbed And Left For Dead

(Bill Bois, Canadian war correspondent, was held prisoner in the theatre for longer than any Canadian soldier. The guard who released him to the Canadian troops in Italy and on the Western front, pride himself on his service to the Canadian cause.)

Last April his story of "The Man Who Was Left For Dead" was probably played in Canada—and was probably right. Bois travelled more than 10,000 miles to interview the Canadian Navy at the front, finding the right man in a convalescent depot in Japan. Here is Bois' account of his experience in the front-line reporter's determination to tell the story and tell it right.

By Bill Bois

KURE, JAPAN.—The man the Chinese couldn't stand is about ready to get his own back.

L. Cpl. Gordon Manktelow of Ajax, Ont., has about finished convalescent training here and expects to return to his unit, the 1st Battalion Royal Canadian Dragoons.

Last March 26 Manktelow played dead while Chinese Communist soldiers pummeled him, stabbed him with bayonets, set off a hand grenade beside him and outlined his body with burgundy paint.

He was in a state of mind was the talk of the battalion. But my story by error gave the credit to another soldier, Cpl. Ken McOrmond of Sudbury, Ont.

Manktelow, a 20-year-old corporal in the medical corps of the Army, has a story more harrowing than the version first reported.

"We were a six-man outfit," he said at No. 6 Convalescent Training Depot here. "When the position was mortared, our commanding officer asked permission to withdraw."

The withdrawal was under way when Manktelow remembered a carbine with the latest infra-red sight had been left. He returned to the position, blew up the carbine with a grenade and used a few more grenades against Chinese he heard on the way back.

By then there were Communists ahead as well as behind him and he went to ground. One of seven Chinese running uphill tripped over him. "They ran and woke me up," he said. "I got up and took the next Sasebo train to the beverage room and sale of liquor by the glass.

Liquor Plebiscite Refused

SASEBO, JAPAN.—The provincial CCP convention here voted down by a decided margin a motion to have a plebiscite held on the next Saskatchewan election on the question of beverage room and sale of liquor by the glass.

Canine Lover Hounded

MOOSE JAW.—A canine-loving burlap bag being bounded by police here for theft of three puppies from a dog kennel. The thief also took with him a stock of food after giving the other 10 dogs in the pound a hearty meal from food he found in the place.

Blacktopping Completed

EKILTHORN, Man.—The last link in the Trans-Canada Highway between Brandon and the Saskatchewan border was completed when blacktopping equipment of the Evans and Commonwealth construction companies met at a point between Ekilthorn and Kirkella on July 14th.

Crop Tax Weeks Early

EDMONTON.—The Alberta grain crop this year is developing about two weeks earlier than normal, field crops commissioner A. M. Wilson said in Edmonton. He said Edmonton's appointed vice-president and Dr. E. J. Highy of Winnipeg was elected branch-treasurer.

Blacktopping Completed

EKILTHORN, Man.—The last link in the Trans-Canada Highway between Brandon and the Saskatchewan border was completed when blacktopping equipment of the Evans and Commonwealth construction companies met at a point between Ekilthorn and Kirkella on July 14th.

Teen-Aged Girls Help Rescue Boy From Drowning

GIMLI, Man.—Two teen-age girls rescued a partially blind boy from drowning in Lake Winnipeg after his bicycle struck on the edge of the dock here and threw him into the water.

The boy, Jimmy Holderson, 16, is a student at the school for the blind in Brantford, Ont., and is spending his summer holidays with his parents here.

He succeeds his cousin, Dr. Isabelle

I don't know whether I faked out or what happened, but next I remember it was fairly light. I got on the path again. I heard noises and thought it might be more Chinese.

"It turned out to be a patrol (led by Lieut. Russ Gardner of Arnprior and Rangdon, Ont.) to see if there was any sign of life. They found me lying on the ground, I was dead and wounded.

"They came over a crest. One man aimed his Sten gun at me. I said 'Don't shoot.' Then I started to cry. I said 'I'm sorry, I was wrong.' I emerged from the other as a hospital near Seoul to find something taped to his shoulder: the base-plate of the grenade. Someone stole it from him later at the Commonwealth hospital here.

Manktelow's recovery has been complete, and a skin graft is healing over the base-plate scar.

"God sure was looking after me that night. If I'd been lying on the ground that bayonet would have got me . . . the grenade on its side . . . I was lucky to have survived. It was more than pure luck, I'm telling you. It was uncanny."

"I get scared even now just thinking about some of the things that could have happened — and about some of the things that did."

"How does he feel about going back?"

"I'm looking forward to it—in a way. My buddies are there. I'm interested to see how I react to action again. But I know when it comes I'll be too busy to worry."

"How did the error in names occur in my first story?"

"I first got the wrong name at brigade headquarters and my notes listed McOrmond's name with the page number. I didn't realize it until I was talking to him. I was happy to talk to Manktelow. I went to the RCR to talk to McOrmond—but he had left for Canada on rotation. His company commander confirmed my notes on 'the man the Chinese couldn't kill,' but didn't realize I had the wrong name."

And I never did get the story of another patrol exploit, a week before Manktelow's experience, that later won McOrmond the Military Medal.

In Alberta
Big Bounties Offered For Dead Wolves, Cougars

EDMONTON, Alta.—The Alberta government posted hefty bounties for dead timber wolves and cougars in a ruthless attempt to halt their attack on livestock and game in the province.

Game officers report the vicious killers are making deep incursions into stock and game, especially in the foothills of the Rocky Mountains.

There is now a $15 bounty on cougars killed in Alberta, exclusive of national parks, up until next March 31.

Timber wolves also cannot be killed in national parks, but their bounty is up to $15 for each animal killed between April 1 and Sept. 30, and $12 per animal for the remainder of the year when the pelt will be more valuable to hunters.

Notice Re Admission To Grade 1

WAINWRIGHT SCHOOL DIVISION, No. 32

All children who are the full age of 6 years by Sept. 1, may begin school in Grade 1 in the various classrooms throughout the Division. There is no special application form required; the teachers will register all pupils on Sept. 2nd, the first day of school.

Children who are younger than 6 years by Sept. 1, 1952 will be required to take a short readiness test to be given in the following centres:

Chauvin Public School — August 20, 2 p.m.

Edgerton Public School — August 21, 2 p.m.

Wainwright Public School — August 22, 2 p.m.

Irma Public School — August 26, 2 p.m.

We feel that a definite date-line is too rigid, and the above tests are provided to give more flexibility to the admissions requirement. However, we do not encourage very young children, those who will not be six until January, 1953 — to seek admission, and such children will be tested only by very special request.

S. A. LINDSTEDT,
Superintendent.
